In Europe the limited coal supply early induced the utilization of the water resources; and the various Continental governments encouraged this movement by granting favorable franchises, and in many cases advanced money to finance the undertakings, at the same time protecting the water-sheds by rigid enforcement of forest preservation laws. It is but natural, therefore, that hydraulic developments and electric transmission received early and special attention abroad, and as a result Europe abounds in hydraulic developments, utilizing heads varying from 16.5 inches to 3116 feet. Believing that the progress in hydroelectric engineering is stimulated by the interchange of
