Excerpt: .appearance of danger; and the great men of the party entered into an association, binding themselves to stand by each other in defence of the Protestant succession. While the Whigs were united in these energetic and during measures, the Tory ministers were, by their total disunion, rendered incapable of availing themselves of the high ground which they occupied, as heads of the administration, or by the time allowed them by the flitting sands of the Queen s life, which were now rapidly ebbing. The discord between Oxford and Bo-lingbroke had now risen so high, that the latter frankly said, that if the question were betwixt the total ruin of their party, and reconciliation with Oxford and safety, he would not hesitate to choose the first alternative. Their views of public affairs were totally different. The Earl of Oxford advised moderate measures, and even some compromise or reconciliation with the Whigs. Bolingbroke conceived he should best meet the Queen s opinions by affecting the most zealous high church principles, giving hopes of the succession of her brother after her death, and by assiduously cultivating the good graces of Mrs Hill, (now created Lady Masham,) the royal favourite; in which, by the superior grace of his manners, and similarity of opinions, he bad entirely superseded the Lord Treasurer Oxford. This dissension betwixt the political rivals, which had smouldered so long, broke out into open hostility in the month of July, 1714, when an extremely bitter...
