Best Letters Press, United States, 2009. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 231 x 188 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Lois Barry, award-winning Professor English and Writing, has assembled an intriguing miscellany of letter-writing history, facts, quotations and writing suggestions. Nearly 200 quotations celebrate letter writing from Lord Byron s classic assertion that Letter writing is the only device for combining solitude with good company, to Kate Spade s modern appreciation, It s uplifting to get a letter like an ooh! in your mail box. Marianne Moore s enthusiastic report, I had a letter from Elisabeth [Bishop] a day or two ago, which I m thinking of having tattooed on me balances Anne Sexton s poignant relief, I m glad you wrote to me. I thought I had died or something, Ada Leverson cautions, You don t know a woman until you have received a letter from her, while John Donne romantically declares More than kisses, letters mingle souls. Chapters of quotations cover all aspects of correspondence: writing letters, receiving letters, saving letters, appreciating letters, waiting for letters, love letters and more. Always First Class combines entertaining reminders of old-fashioned letter writing for those of a certain age with persuasive suggestions that young technophiles explore this pleasantly retro means of communication. Historical information ranges from the once-practical (On making vellum: First, kill a goat) to the economic (In 1673 when 50 cents a day was a living wage in the American colonies, it cost $3.50 to send a letter from New York to Philadelphia). In addition to an appreciation of letter writing and a history of the social changes necessary before private personal letters could be exchanged, three chapters focus on various occasions and myriad topics for writing letters from Do you remember when...
