Evolution of International Institutions in an Integrating World Economy

By Miles Kahler

BROOKINGS INSTITUTION, United States, 1995. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 153 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book. Dynamic changes in international institutions have been a striking feature of international politics in the post-cold war world. The General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) has been transformed into the World Trade Organization, the International Monetary Fund (IMF) and the World Bank have assumed new roles in the transitional economies of Eastern Europe and the former soviet Union, and regional arrangements have proliferated. With deepening economic integration, these institutions play an increasingly important role. In this book, a part of the Integrating National Economies series, Miles Kahler examines both global and regional institutions and their importance in the world economy. Kahler explains the variation in these institutions and assesses the role they play in sustaining economic cooperation among nations. With greater tensions arising between an economy that is more integrated and a political order that remains highly fragmented, international institutions face many hurdles in supporting policy coordination and harmonization. The core global institutions--the IMF, World Bank, and GATT--have redesigned their roles in response to the new realities of economic integration. Kahler explains the evolution of these institutions, compares their strengths...
